

AUTHOR GUIDELINE

1. Manuscripts have to be written in English.
2. Italicize every foreign-language word or phrase appearing in the main text, footnotes, or bibliography, and place its English translation directly afterward in brackets “[]”. See the example below:

Foreign language in body text:

Therefore, the founding fathers of the Indonesian Constitution made the Negara Kesatuan [Unitary State] the central feature of the new Indonesian statehood, as it is set out most prominently in article 1(1)6 and 25A.

Foreign language in bibliography

Corte Costituzionale Italiana [Italian Constitutional Court]. Sent. 194/2013 Giudizio di legittimità costituzionale in via principale [Judgment on question of constitutionality] No. 194/2013 (July 17, 2013).

Foreign language in footnote:

Carlo Azeglio Ciampi, Intervento del Presidente della Repubblica Carlo Azeglio Ciampi in occasione della consegna delle medaglie d'oro ai benemeriti della cultura e dell'arte [Speech of the President of the Italian Republic Carlo Azeglio Ciampi on the delivery of the Gold Medals for Culture and Arts merit], May 5, 2003.

3. The authors who are not native speakers of English need to seek the assistance of a native speaker to proofread their articles before submitting them to the committee.
4. Manuscripts submitted must be original scientific writings and do not contain elements of plagiarism.
5. Submitted manuscripts have not been published elsewhere. The manuscripts are also not under consideration in any publishers.
6. Bibliography and footnotes: The Chicago Manual of Style (CMS) 17th Edition (Full notes) is obligatory
7. The length of the manuscripts including footnotes are around 8000-10.000 words.
8. Manuscripts are written in A4 paper, 12-point Times New Roman, 1.5 space and written in standard and correct grammatical language.
9. The references of the manuscript should use at least 15 international journal article. The author could refer to the Constitutional Review (ConsRev) Journal as the additional international references to : <https://consrev.mkri.id/index.php/const-rev>.
10. Main headings, sub-headings, and sub-sub-headings of the article should be numbered in the manuscript with the following example:

I. MAIN HEADING

1.1.Sub-heading

1.1.1. Sub-sub-heading

II. MAIN HEADING

11. The following is the structure of the journal:

I. Title

- Title of manuscripts should be specific and concise in no more than 10 words or 90 hits on the key pad which describes the content of the article comprehensively.
- It is typed by using Times New Roman 16, upper case, alignment: center text.

II. Identity

- The identity covers the author's name, affiliation, and e-mail address.
- The name is typed under the title by using Times New Roman 12, bold, alignment: center text then put asterisk after the name.
- The content of the asterisk is about short explanation of the author(s), could be short biography (short bio) or gratitude, and placed in a footnote. Example:

INDONESIA'S JUDICIAL REVIEW REGIME IN COMPARATIVE PERSPECTIVE

Theunis Roux*

The University of New South Wales (UNSW), Sydney, Australia
t.roux@unsw.edu.au

of legal and political authority lock into and mutually support each other. The fourth section uses this conceptual framework to assess the Indonesian Constitutional Court's approach to its mandate after 2003. Under its first two chief justices, the paper notes, the Court engaged in a concerted effort to build public understanding of its legitimate role in national politics. The Court's abrupt switch between its first Chief Justice, Jimly Asshiddiqie's legalist conception of

* Professor of Law at The University of New South Wales (UNSW) Sydney, former, Secretary-General of the International Association of Constitutional Law (IACL), and the Founding Director of the South African Institute for Advanced Constitutional, Public, Human Rights and International Law (SAIFAC).

III. Abstract

- The abstract should be written vividly, full and complete which describes the essence of the content of the whole writing in one paragraph.
- Font: Times New Roman, font size: 12, alignment: justify text, space: 1.5, margin: Normal.
- Total words: 200 words - 350 words.

IV. Keywords

- Preceded by the word “Keyword” in bold style (Keywords).
- Font: Times New Roman, font size: 12, lower case, alignment: justify text.
- Selected keywords have to denote the concept of the article in 3-5 terms (horos).

V. Body

The body of the manuscript should cover introduction, method, analysis and discussion, and conclusion.

- Introduction: It presents a clear information concerning the issue that will be discussed in the manuscript. The background of the article is presented in this section. The end of the introduction should be finished by stating the signification and the objective/aim of the article.
- Method: It is an optional section for articles which are based on research.
- Analysis and discussion: Analysis and discussion are presented continuously. It provides the elaboration of the result of your article.
- Conclusion: This section is the most important section of your article. It contains the overall explanation of your article. It should be clear and concise.
- Bibliography: The paper needs to cover at least 10 articles from reputable journal. Our reference uses The Chicago Manual of Style (CMS) 17th Edition (Full notes).

Example of Table

TABLE 2. Real-world magnitudes of the relationship between tort reform and death rates
Tort reform	Annual death rates (%)	Number of deaths in 2000	Deaths across all years
Cap on noneconomic damages	-3.54	-333	-5,242
Higher evidence standard for punitive damages	-2.57	-982	-11,798
Product liability reform	-3.83	-1,267	-16,841
Prejudgment interest reform	-4.88	-647	-9,060
Collateral source reform
Offset awards	+4.71	+938	+14,160
Admit evidence	+2.43	+294	+4,468
Net effect		-1,998	-24,314

Note: Values presented are average changes. These computations are based on the coefficients from the primary regression (table 3) and the average annual populations and average annual death rates in the states that had each reform. The sums of the individual reforms differ by one from the net effects owing to rounding.